

Parting Words:

Terry LaBrouno:

I admire your passion for what you believe in; I admire your loyalty to who or what you believe in. I have noted you must be fed by 10:P.M or there will be hell to pay. I will miss you "Tarzan Yell" cell phone ring.

Ruben Ramos:

I admire your ability to compromise listen; you govern with a calm an ease about you that makes you very accessible. I do not feel in anyway that you are leaving; we have many issues to work on together. I must commend you for your choice of "Mattie Torres as a Legislative Aide".

Dawn Zimmer:

Congratulation to you Ravi, David, and Carol nobody knows how it feels to put yourself, your family and friends out there for all the good bad and the ugly in a campaign, only those of us who have run for office can understand you garner support where you didn't know you had and you garner enemies you didn't know you had, all in all it was a good campaign.

Peter Cammarano:

Peter, we have a tale of two Cites everyone knows a house divided does not stand, and we are split right down the middle, the very fabric of what make us Hoboken, has been ripped to shreds, your greatest challenge is not the taxes or development, but one by one putting the pieces back together, only then will all issues Taxes & Development will fall into place.

The formula to achieve that goal is thru compromise, negotiation co-operation and dialogue between you, council members and the members of the public.

I will do whatever mediation is necessary to move the city forward. Now that doesn't mean I will vote for whatever you put on the table don't get to comfortable.
